

ALBERTA ADVENTURE DIVERS
RED DEER NEWSLETTER
15-MAY-2023

Hello divers and people who would like to dive!

It seems we've skipped from winter right into summer. The Twin Lakes campground opened last Friday. If you've got a chance to get out, I strongly encourage you to do so! I'll be busy with my day job until early June, when dive nights will start! Read below for more information.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT DIVE NIGHTS

The most exciting part of this newsletter is Wednesday Night Dives at Twin Lakes. If you've never dove here, check out this blog article.

I'll be supporting Dive Nights at Twin Lakes on (you guessed it) Wednesday, from June 7 to July 19. I usually get there at 5:30pm and leave between 9pm & 10pm. Come on out with your favourite dive buddy, or we'll set you up with somebody there.

There is no cost if you've got your own gear & air. If you need anything, I can help. Costs are:

Air fill - $15 (discount with air fill card)

Tank rental (includes air fill!) - $25

Gear rental (wetsuit) - $40

Gear rental (drysuit) - $70

I've got limited amounts of gear in Red Deer, but more available from our main store with a bit of heads up.

DIVE TRAINING

Send me a message if you are interested in continuing education. I'll be available to teach on Wednesday Nights. In addition to the core courses, I can teach quite a few specialties. Twin Lakes is great for many training courses, including some of my favourites like Drysuit, Deep Diver, Self-Reliant Diver, and Tec 40 CCR. Send me a message for more information.

PUB NIGHT

Pub night was a lot of fun this winter, and a great way to talk about diving when we couldn't go diving, and to meet some new buddies. We will resume pub night when the ice goes back on the lakes, in favour of open water diving!

POOL TIME & LESSONS

The spring has been pretty successful for open water lessons. Several students have completed their confined water dives, and I look forward to completing open water dives this summer!

I don't anticipate any additional pool sessions until the winter. I will run open water classes with a minimum of four students, pending pool availability.

Thanks for reading!
