

Alberta Adventure Divers May 24, 2021

First dive weekend: May 29/30
Dive night begins June 1
Specialty of the Month – S&R
Dive event calendar

The beautiful rain will be over by the weekend! Let's go diving!

May 29/30 diving at Clear Lake: We will have the air trailer for fills if divers wish to do some fun dives. Bring your buddy with you, or check at the store with Dan for someone who may be looking for a buddy.

Dive lessons May 29/30: Connie will be teaching a sidemount class; and David and Kevin B will also be at the lake teaching students. These classes are being finalized, and details will be sent to the students this week.

We will start at 10 am; bring your own lunch, snacks and lawn chair.

Our first dive night of 2020 is June 1: Sign up at the dive store! Make plans to join us on Tues. evenings at Clear Lake for dive night. We welcome all divers to become 'true Canadian divers' and experience local dives in Clear Lake. We meet about 6 pm every Tues. night in June, July and August to dive and socialize. If you require rental equipment, we will bring it to the lake to make it easy for you to join us! We welcome new divers, and love to give tours of our underwater park. We expect to have a great dive season in Alberta. Mark is working on Twin Lake dive nights for our Red Deer area divers.

Covid considerations at the Clear Lake: As of May 24, Wainwright is a 'high case' region, and follows restriction that outdoor gatherings are limited to five people outside a household. This means each class/group will have no more than five, including instructor, divemaster and students.

This also means we will maintain very low student/instructor ratios. We can have several dive groups on the beach, we just have to maintain distances between each group.

I spoke to our MD councillor about outdoor recreation - he reports that the beach and outhouse will remain open – yeah! The MD will not be limiting access to the beach, they expect groups to self-monitor that they are keeping their group separate from other groups. We can supply air to divers, but are to limit the people inside the dive trailer. Stay safe everyone!

Covid considerations at the dive store: When you stop by the store to pick up that awesome pair of bungee straps for your fins, keep in mind that we follow AB Health restrictions carefully in our dive activities. Good news: the dive store is open. We sanitize frequently, wear masks whenever anyone is in the store, and do our best to maintain 2 meters distance even with masks on.

Store hours: 9 to 5 weekdays; Thurs. hours are 1 to 5. Closed for lunch.

Something new to kick off the dive season: a 'Specialty of the Month' for June - Search & Recovery. This course is a pinnacle four dive specialty course. We always have fun teaching it, and it can be taught with 'indirect supervision' which is favourable for Covid protocols. The regular price is $440; discount price of $380 for the first 7 students (using crew packs, not on-line learning: on line is $440). Class dates: May 29/30, and dive nights - June 1, 8, 15. Sign up with Dan at the dive store.

NEW: Dive calendar on our website: check out our website: AlbertaDivers.ca. We have begun to fill our summer calendar with events and courses. Click on the date, and a bit more information about the event is revealed!

First signed up have priority: if an event or course tweaks your interest, ensure you have signed up and paid with Dan at the dive store!

Divescapes on-line: Special thanks to Terina and the AUC for lining up the Canadian speakers to highlight diving in Canada. It inspired me to want even more to be able to dive and travel more freely in Canada. We have vaccine #1, and look forward to #2 and the travel world opening up a bit.
